King Hussein's Wedding Is Held

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan, a defiant descendant of the Prophet Mohammed, today married a 20-year-old English commoner who will be neither a queen nor a princess.

TRADING ROUTINE

NEW YORK (AP)—A moderate stock market recovery move was dampened early this afternoon by continued weakness in American Telephone, Du Pont and General Motors. Trading was routine.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 249.50 with industrials up .10, rails off .10 and utilities off .20.

100 May Lose Lives Over Memorial Day

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council estimated today as many as 100 persons might be killed in traffic over the Memorial Day holiday.

The estimate, which the council stressed was not a prediction of that many deaths, covers those occurring in the 30-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Monday and midnight Tuesday.

The last one-day Memorial Day holiday was in 1957 when the traffic death toll was 94. The 15-year high for a comparable Memorial Day holiday was 109 in 1956. The low was 81 in 1951.

The county committee, named early in 1960, held meetings, conducted studies and compiled a county report which was sent to Harrisburg for inclusion in the state report which went to Washington as part of the material to be studied at the January conference.

The awards are part of the 34 grants of $300 each presented by the Brotherhood to Lutheran senior college students this year. The society has allocated more than $105,000 for its 1961 scholarship program. The awards are granted on high school, college, seminary and graduate levels.

between the two structures will be converted into an addition to the parking lot, thus permitting mail vehicles to turn around so they can exit into E. High St.

Attorney Charles W. Wolf, who represented property owners in the area, had mentioned at the original meeting that construction of the driveway originally planned would block off many windows in the McClean building. The new plan adds only about two feet to the wall along the windows, and that is at the east end of the property, away from the McClean structure itself. Preliminary plans would have placed a new driveway tight against the property line of R. W. Wentz and perhaps taken some of his land. The new plan will make no changes there.

Alex Buchart, an architect, and James Tobias, of the General Services Administration, the government's agency which handles such items as building and renting public structures, were among the government officials present.

Borough Councilman George W. Naugle presided at Wednesday's meeting with Chief of Police Jack Bartlett, Borough Councilman Mahlon P. Hartzell Sr., Burgess Plank, Acting Postmaster Jacob Applier, R. W. Wentz and Attorney Wolf among the local folk attending.

The Gettysburg Planning Commission several months ago recommended to the council that E. High and S. Stratton Sts. be made two-way streets with parking confined to one side.

The "Freedom Riders" were charged with breach of peace and When each bus stopped at the Mississippi-Alabama border, the Alabama troops got off and were replaced by Mississippi National Guardsmen.

National Guard reconnaissance planes and helicopters followed each bus throughout the entire trip.

RESENT PUBLICITY

The riders expressed some resentment against the police and military preparations and the extensiveness of the press coverage. "This is not a normal situation," protested the Rev. James Lawson of Nashville, Tenn., who headed the first group. "It does not carry out the purposes of our project. We are not traveling as private citizens but as protectees of a government. We are not seeking violence."

The group sang hymns, including a special "Freedom Riders Hymn" composed for the trip.

FEARS INJURIES

About the same time the first arrests were being made here, the youthful attorney general—brother of the President—made his plea for a cooling-off period in Washington.

"Innocent people may be injured," said the attorney general. "A mob asks no questions."

Nearly 700 deputy U. S. marshals are being held at Maxwell Air Force Base near Montgomery for use in any emergency. They were ordered there earlier when violence erupted in Alabama capital city over the arrival of the "Freedom Riders."

In Washington, a Justice Department public information officer declined to say if the U. S. marshals would be sent into Mississippi.

Littlestown
LONG SESSION CONDUCTED BY TOWN COUNCIL

A widely varied assortment of business matters came before the Littlestown borough council at its May meeting which began Tuesday at 8 p.m. and adjourned at 12:45 o'clock Wednesday morning. All members of council were present with President Robert J. Stonesifer presiding.

Revised plans for sanitary sewer and water mains in the McSherry Park development were presented to council by Russell C. Reichart of the firm of Klinedinst and Reichart, Hanover. It was pointed out, however, that the plans will have to be forwarded to the borough's engineers for their stamp of approval and permission for an extension of sewer facilities must be secured from the state Department of Health before construction of the extensions can begin.

Mr. Reichart also brought before council the matter of extending the six-inch water main on Maryland Ave. After some discussion, council adopted a motion approving payment of the borough's cost for installing the six-inch water main from the first alley south of W. Myrtle St. on Maryland Ave. to W. King St. in order that a loop be obtained rather than a dead end. The distance involved is about 180 feet. It was stated the borough will construct the line when "satisfactory agreements" are obtained for proposed acceptance of quit claim deeds for the land involved.

OPEN MATERIAL BIDS
The street committee reported to council various bad surface conditions on streets and alleys and the street commissioner was instructed to make corrections. Some of the spots mentioned specially included the alley between Cemetery and Boyer Sts., Lumber St., W. Myrtle St. and the alley adjacent to the playground. Council voted to advertise for bids for blacktopping Pennsylvania Ave. It was explained that the bids are being asked to "to determine the cost for comparison against other types of street construction and to endeavor to learn whether sufficient funds would be available for other street construction as contemplated for this year."

Bids were opened for stone and bituminous material for summer work on streets.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

Three firms submitted bids and the contract for furnishing crushed stone for the current season was awarded to the Bethlehem Limestone Company, Hanover. Their low offer was $1.40 per ton for 2,000 tons of 2A stone, $1.50 per ton for all other sizes and $1.55 for sand and screenings.

Only one bid was received for furnishing 10,000 gallons, more or less, of bituminous materials, that of the Lansdell Corporation of Maryland at Baltimore and the bid was accepted. It was $0.205 per gallon for furnishing and applying or delivering any quantity of DH-3m, H-3 and P-3.

Several councilmen reported complaints about the manner in which the link chain fence along Patrick Ave. have been erected and a discussion resulted in instructions to have the fence reversed, top for bottom, so that the spurs would be on the bottom instead of the top.

TO GET BIDS

After a lengthy discussion of a finance committee report on talks with the borough secretary relative to plans to moving the borough offices to the proposed community center, council voted to ask bids for emergency fire and police telephone answering call service and or clerical work. The bidders may be male or female and the finance committee was given authority to interview and employ persons suitable for such positions. A ceiling of $4,200 was placed on the cost of employing such extra persons.

Councilman Myers reported on the contemplated community center plans for remodeling the former school building for borough offices and it was apparent, borough officials said, that Councilman Myers "had the green light" for proceeding with the committee's plan for remodeling.

A safe was ordered purchased

from Paul E. Hiltbrich Jr. for $25 for use at the borough office.

LETTER ON INSURANCE

Council had a communication from Merchants' and Businessmen's Mutual Insurance Company of Harrisburg notifying council of intention to cancel fire and extended coverage insurance on the former King St. school building. The company is to be asked to reconsider or delay cancellation but, if they decline, insurance coverage is to be secured elsewhere.

2 NEW HOMES

The finance committee was authorized by council to submit bids on surplus items usable by the borough from various governmental agencies.

The street commissioner was authorized to buy a used V-8 Ford motor and used transmission for installation in the Ford pickup truck and to proceed with necessary repairs.

Water permits were issued to Dr. Richard N. Greenholt, 342 E. King St.; Charles E. Plank, R. 1; Howard J. Harner, 39 James Ave., and to Dr. Greenholt for a dwelling and dental office at 362 E. King St.

Building permits issued covered two new dwellings and a number of plans for repairs or improvements: Earl W. Zumbum, to construct a 1½-story brick cased dwelling at 44 Columbus Ave.; Dr. Richard Greenholt, to construct a stone and aluminum siding dwelling and dental office at 326 E. King St.; to Mrs. Velma Eppelman, 106 W. King St., to paint and repair a house; Harold R. Sentz, 311 Prince St., to repair or replace dwelling roof; Leroy G. Myers, 409 Prince St., repair front porch; Regina M. Arter, 119 W. King St., remove stump and relay sidewalk; E. S. Shriver, 15 W. King St., repair and paint dwelling; Wilbur A. Long, R. 1, relay sidewalk; Wilbur sidewalk for Fred Heaton; Lloyd R. Reaver, N. Queen St., repair front porch; William R. Garver, 44 S. Queen St., erect display sign; Clark L. Fuhrman, 67 Crouse Park, to paint frame dwelling, and to Ralph H. Dehoff, 46 Lumber St., paint and repair dwelling and garage.

Bills were read aloud and ordered paid amounting to $10,448 from the borough fund; $380 from the water fund and $1,729 from the sanitary sewer fund.

Treasurer John H. Flickinger reported transfer of $10,000 from the parking meter fund to the general fund. The treasurer reported a total collection of $206 in fines and fees.

Chief of Police Calvin W. Mumert reported 33 violations for overtime parking and one case of parking too close to an intersection. On motor code violations he listed these: Four for reckless driving, 11 for speeding, 11 for traffic light violations, three for passing at an intersection, one for following too closely, one too fast conditions, one for lighting equipment and one for prevention of noise. The chief reported six criminal investigations, one accident case and 11 investigations for government or other agencies. Police conducted five funeral escorts, served two warrants, served one summons, one juvenile case, four payroll escorts and covered 1,120 miles in the patrol car. Meter collections in the month totaled $549.

The chief reported the police car needs new tires and council asked the finance committee to investigate and make the purchase if they found it necessary. Council will meet next on June 27.

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP) — Capt. Warren J. Fair, 43, of Evans City, Pa., was among 18 military personnel who died Wednesday in a crash of a C124 Globemaster.

Fair is survived by his wife, Georgia, and four children. They resided in Greenville, Wash. The cause of the crash was not known.

Villanova Runner Is Ready For Meet

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova's star runner Frank Budd says he's definitely stronger and has more confidence for this week-end's IC4A track meet in New York.

Budd, who has been taking heat treatments for a sore back, will face Penn State great Bobby Brown, who swept the 100-200 sprints in last year's IC4A.

"I try not to think about the opposition anymore," says Budd. "I just run. It's hard to tell about Bobby. He gets up for some meets. When a good sprinter like him gets up—well, you have to respect him. But I'm not going to worry about him."

KENNEDY TOO BUSY TO HEAR JUNTA LEADER

By GENE KRAMER
SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Premier Chang Do-young's on-again off-again flight to Washington to see President Kennedy appeared off today.

The young general who led the overthrow of South Korea's elected government last week was refused both a visa to enter the United States and an invitation from the White House.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green told him that Kennedy is too busy to see him before leaving for Europe early next week.

LONG CONFERENCE

Apparently still hopeful, the soldier-premier conferred for 45 minutes again today with Green. Informants said the diplomat tried to explain to Chang why Kennedy was unable to meet him now and at the same time put new pressure on the leader of the military junta for an early return to civilian government in South Korea.

Brushing aside protocol, Chang made a surprise announcement Wednesday that he was going to see the President. It brought a quick reply from Washington that the visit was "not practical or feasible at this time."

Military censors prevented Korean newspapers from carrying the State Department's statement and most Koreans still had the impression Chang planned to depart as soon as possible.

BOOK PLANE SEATS

Between the time the statement was issued in Washington and today's meeting between Chang and Green, five airline seats were booked for the United States Friday.

This led to the speculation that Chang might be thinking of going to the United States to sell his revolution even if he couldn't see Kennedy.

The military junta ruling South Korea meanwhile released from prison at least nine former cabinet ministers of the overthrown government. They were allowed to return to their homes but kept under guard.

Social Security

Q. Are all household workers covered by social security?

A. Household workers are covered by social security only if they are paid cash wages of $50 or more in a calendar quarter by the same employer.

Q. How do I start reporting my maid's social security?

A. Phone or write your nearest office of the Internal Revenue Service or your nearest social security office and ask for booklet OASI-21. This booklet contains full information on reporting social security taxes for household workers and includes a handy postcard form that you can use to get reporting forms you need.

S. What form is used to report household workers?

A. For 942. It comes in an easy-to-use envelope folders, ready for mailing.

Q. My maid does not want social security credit and has threatened to quit if I deduct social security taxes from her wages. How may I fulfill my responsibilities for reporting her wages and still keep her on the job?

A. By law, you have a right to deduct her part of the tax from her wages. There is nothing in the law to prevent you from paying the entire social security tax, including her share, if you so desire. It is better, though, if she can be persuaded to contribute her part since this will help her understand her own responsibility and that she is paying toward future benefits that have real value. Your social security office has several free booklets telling household workers of protection they get through social security coverage. You may get copies of these booklets mailed to you by writing to your local Social Security Office. The Chambersburg Trust Co. THOMAS E. PIPER

Foodmarkets will be virtual "beehives of activity" this weekend as shoppers purchase supplies for the long Memorial Day holiday. Plentiful food supplies and the beginning of the outdoor cooking season provides unlimited food retailers, observes Tom Piper, Penn State extension marketing agent.

The broiler-fryer chicken is in abundant supply right now and is economically priced. Look for this item to be featured in some markets. Broilers are a good main dish choice no matter how you plan to observe Memorial Day. If the weather's sunny and mild and a picnic is scheduled, they're suitable for out-of-doors preparation or for a take-along meal. If skies are overcast, they go well indoors.

Hot dogs and hamburgers are economically priced and popular picnic items. Fresh pork picnics and forequarter cuts of beef, namely chuck roasts, are included on the list of good meat buys this weekend.

LETTUCE IS CHEAP

There lots of candidates for the popular tossed vegetable salad. Lower prices may be noted on lettuce as local harvesting gets started. Onions, including nearby bunched green onions, cabbage, cucumbers, peppers, leafy greens, bunched radishes and carrots will be noted at favorable prices. Tomatoes are in plentiful supply and prices are reasonable. You should find tomatoes of good quality, firm but not overripe, fairly well formed, plump, smooth, of good color and free from blemishes.

If you are hungry for a fresh-roasting ear of corn, this may be an economical possibility. Peak shipments from the growing areas of Florida are due at local markets this week. Select ears with a dark green husk and filled with bright, plump, milky kernels that are just firm enough to offer slight resistance to pressure.

Recent cool weather means generally lower prices on watermelons this weekend. First shipments of California cantaloupes have arrived and eating quality is reported good; the bulk of the crop still come from Mexico and Texas. Strawberry supplies are coming from nearby states and prices on this delicacy have moved lower. Bananas remain on the list of good buys in fruit. Grapefruit is still a good buy but shoppers should check the weight in relation to size as an indication of quality. Orange prices are rather high; the same is true for first-of-season plums, cherries and peaches.

SENATE READY FOR VOTE ON SCHOOL FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today was poised for final action on President Kennedy's $2.55 billion public school aid bill. Its backers predicted the measure would pass by a margin of more than two to one.

Voting on amendments was completed Wednesday night, after a second successive 12-hour session to hasten passage of the hotly disputed measure.

But the final vote had to be put over because of several lengthy speeches against the legislation still to be delivered, mostly by Southern senators. A final vote is expected late in the afternoon.

TOUGHER IN HOUSE

The House may act on the legislation week after next. There the fight is expected to be much tougher.

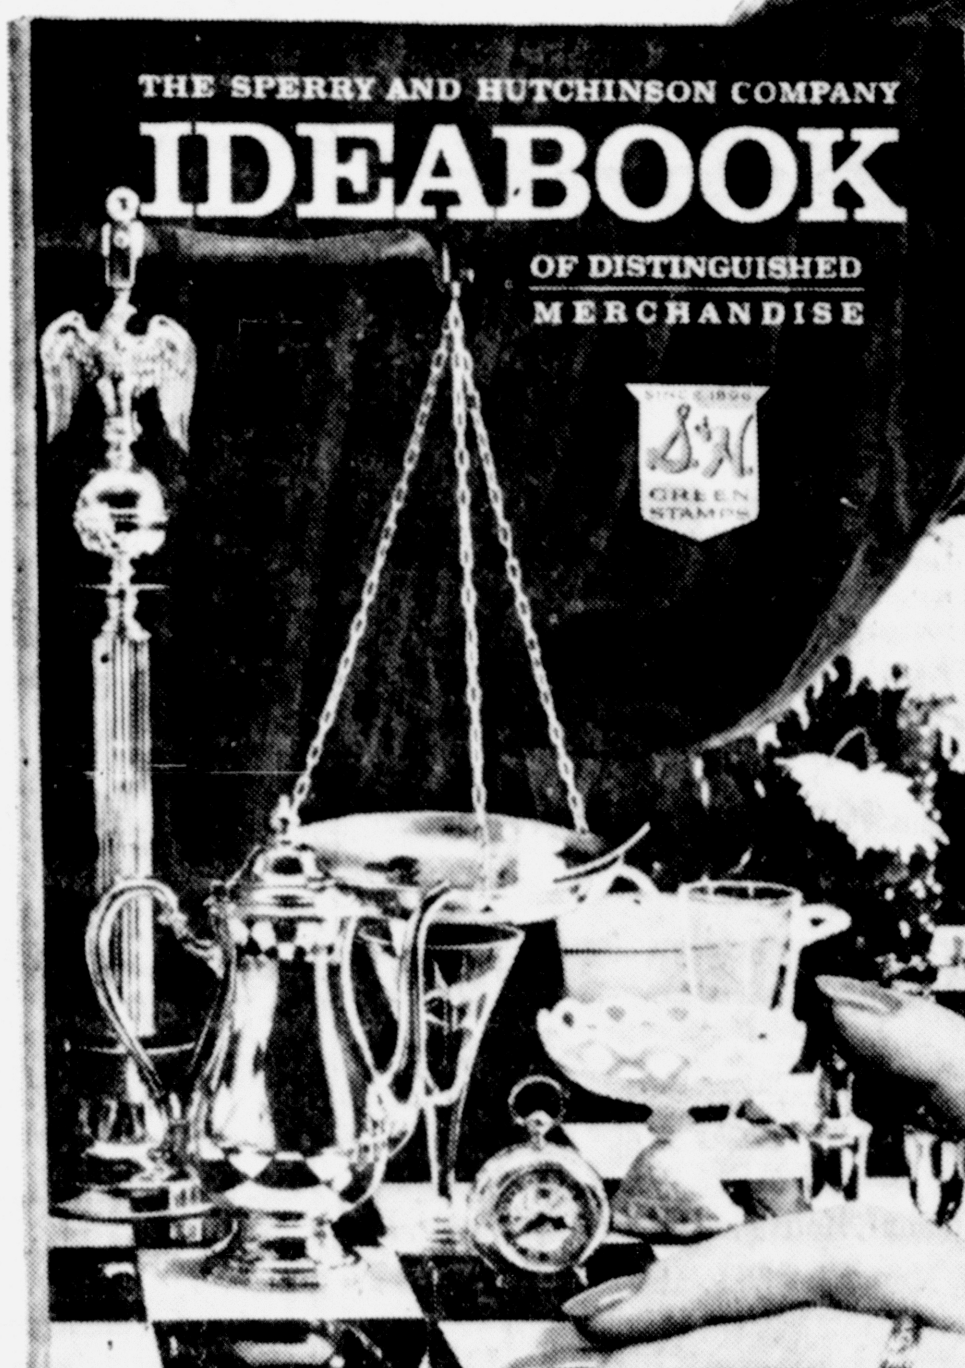

However, administration forces in the House were encouraged by their success in getting the measure approved finally by the Education and Labor Committee Wednesday, 18 to 13. It does not carry any religious school or civil rights riders.

In its final form, the measure authorizes $850 million a year in grants to the states for three years to be used for teacher salaries, school construction or general operating expenses in public grade and high schools.

paragans and canned freestone peaches complete the list of plentiful foods available at economical prices this weekend.

An Ironic Footnote To Nazism

אייכמן נשפט בלשון משה

(Eichmann Is Tried In Language Of Moses)

By ANDREW MEISELS
Associated Press Staff Writer

"In sinne der anklage, nicht schuldig," says the defendant in crisp German tones.

"B'ruah ha-ashamah, eneni ashem," the official intones, translating the words into Hebrew, the language of the court.

The television interpreter puts it into English for the benefit of those watching the proceeding in English-speaking lands:

"In the spirit of the indictment, I am not guilty."

But the words that echo through the Jerusalem courtroom where Adolf Eichmann is being tried — the German and the Hebrew — are clearly audible to the television audience.

They represent a major irony in this trial of a man charged with attempting to blot out the Jewish people.

DOESN'T SPEAK HEBREW
Adolf Eichmann does not speak Hebrew, contrary to one of the many fables he spread about himself in Nazi circles.

On the other hand, his three judges and the prosecutor who reads the roll of his alleged crimes all speak German. Yet they do not use it, nor do they seem even to recognize its sound as they sit solemnly in the Jerusalem court.

This is protocol, of course, but it also serves as a final slap at the accused architect of Hitler's "final solution."

LANGUAGE OF JEWS

The language Adolf Eichmann hears about him is the language of Moses and King David. Ironically, for the most part it was not the language of the Jews the Nazis killed. It had not been the everyday language of the Jews for millennia until it was revived as the official language of Israel.

Editor's Note: Americans watching excerpts of the Eichmann trial on television have heard in the background the sonorous language of the courtroom, a strange sound to most Western ears. It's Hebrew, the language of the Old Testament and the revived language of modern Israel. Here is a Background Report on Hebrew by AP Staff Writer Andrew Meisels, who speaks, reads and writes it fluently.

Ironically, too, the language in which Adolf Eichmann is charged with being history's arch antisemite is the only Semitic thing about the Jews.

Contrary to popular belief, "Semitic" does not denote a racial or ethnic group. It is a linguistic term. The Jews, like the Arabs, are a mixture of many stocks. Only their languages are classified as semitic, as are Aramaic, ancient Syriac and Ethiopian Coptic.

Historically, Hebrew was the Semitic language spoken by that group of tribes which left Egypt under the leadership of Moses some 3,500 years ago.

BIBLE HAS IMPACT

The Bible had a tremendous impact on the Hebrew tongue — the same kind of impact the King James translation of the Bible had on English some three thousands years later. It froze the language so that there was little change in it afterward.

By about 100 B.C., however, Hebrew had fallen into general disuse. While still the language of scholars and of the temple service, it was supplanted in the marketplace by Aramaic, a similar Semitic tongue common at the time to all the nations of Syria-Palestine.

It was in Aramaic that Jesus delivered his sermons, since he was directing them to the common people, and some Jewish prayers of the period are in Aramaic rather than in Hebrew.

With the destruction of Judaea in 70 A.D. the dispersed Jews tended in their daily affairs to speak the languages of the countries in which they lived.

Often, they would mix corrupted Hebrew words into their new languages and write the resultant product in Hebrew characters. A series of jargons thus arose among Jews living in various parts of the world.

SPOKE "YIDDISH"

The Jews of Medieval Germany evolved a jargon consisting mostly of German with a few badly pronounced Hebrew words thrown in. They called this language Jewish or "Yiddish" and it persists to this day as a colorful, basically Germanic tongue.

Yiddish spread with the wanderings of the Jews and became, for a time, almost an international language in eastern and central Europe.

Most of the Jews killed by the Nazis during World War II spoke ACCUSER: Israel's Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner is sketched by Israeli artist J. Ross as he ticks off in Hebrew the indictments against Adolf Eichmann.

Yiddish either as their mother tongue or as a secondary language. It is probable that Eichmann understood this language. Most Germans can.

Hebrew remained in the synagogue and the talmudic academy—pure and uncorrupted as only a dead language can be—until the 19th Century and the birth of the Zionist movement.

RETURN SEEMED LOGICAL

The early Zionists sought a return to Israel's former glory, and a return to the nation's former tongue seemed as logical to them as the revival of Gaelic later seemed to Irish patriots.

Due to the efforts of the first colonists in Palestine, Hebrew today is the official language of the state of Israel. New immigrants learn it in special station-run schools, and it is the mother tongue of all children born in Israel.

Hebrew is about as different

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Perry L. LaBarr of Pittsburgh has been installed as grand commander of the Pennsylvania Knights Templar, succeeding Harrison C. Hartline of Erie.

Other officers installed at Wednesday's closing session of the state Grand Commandery's four-day convocation were:

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—An explosion at a punctured oil line triggered a spectacular blaze Wednesday along Ten Mile Creek in nearby West Amity. No one was hurt.

Flames were visible for several miles. It took volunteer firemen about two hours to bring the fire under control.

Firemen said the oil line was accidentally punctured by a crew digging up old pipe along the creek. Oil spurted out onto the ground and the blast of undetermined origin followed.

A high-lift was destroyed.

sound of Hebrew. It is hard even to order a meal in the language without making it sound almost biblical.

Part of the reason is that there is essentially no difference between modern and ancient Hebrew. An Old Testament prophet could return tomorrow, sit in at the Adolf Eichmann trial and understand what is going on.

Of necessity, some new words have had to be created or borrowed from foreign languages to designate modern innovations ranging from the telephone to the gas chamber.

Another new word is "milyon," meaning million.

The ancient Israelites had no need of a word to denote so huge a sum, but it is needed now, if for nothing else than for the trial of a man charged with six million murders.

To the outsider, there seems a solemn quality to the very

Story Of Gun That Loaded On Sunday, Fired All Week

In the May issue of the Pennsylvania Game News there is an interesting article by Jim Varner on the "Secret Weapon of the Civil War," the gun that could load on Sunday and fire all week. It follows here in full:

By JIM VARNER

A century ago this summer our nation was in the throes of an unfortunate, heart-rending conflict which, from the standpoint of sheer brutal courage, expenditure of lives and ferocity, has never been equalled. Like all wars, the Civil War caused a rash of new inventions. Some were practical; the majority were of little value. The aim was to get the utmost in equipment and firepower into the field in the shortest possible time. All of the inventions in the ordnance field were aimed at producing more accurate and faster firing weapons. Out of this maelstrom of inventions emerged the "Secret Weapon of the 1860's."

Recently, in the quiet of my den, I became deeply engrossed in an exceptionally interesting treatise on Colonel Wilder's famous "Hatchet Brigade," later known as the Lightning Brigade. The history of this young commander and his daring, mounted infantry, some 4,000 strong, reads like a thriller dealing in the impossible.

SAW FINE CARBINE

As I followed one episode after another of this dashing, cunning officer of the Army of the Cumberland, I paused in deep reflection and for some unaccountable reason my eyes focused on a squat, short, highly prized carbine. It stands in a room-length gun rack containing my collection of over 160 firearms old and new. Suddenly it dawned upon me that this carbine was responsible for Wilder's spectacular successes.

During the summer of 1863 the Union forces, some 45,000 strong and under the leadership of General Thomas, were unable to reach Chattanooga. Deployed across their approach were some 50,000 Confederates under General Bragg. His "gray-wall" army around Hoovers Gap certainly had the terrain in their favor, as well as equal numbers of battle-hardened infantry and cavalry. It was a well-known fact that Confederate cavalry was far superior to the Army of the North. When General Thomas ordered Wilder's "Hatchet Brigade" to charge through the Gap some seven miles ahead of the main force and into the numerically superior Confederate forces, it certainly looked like a stupid mistake.

UNAWARE OF TRAP

But in typical, dashing manner, Wilder's mounted infantry moved into the Gap apparently unaware of the death-trap planned to obliterate them. The over-confident Confederates swarmed forward, giving vent to their blood-curdling yell, expecting to mop up quickly. The Federals fired several rounds of grape and canister from their few, light six-pounders. This only stung the enemy into a more furious double-charged advance as they fixed bayonets for the kill, holding their cavalry in immediate reserve. As the methodical, deadly line moved into close range, Wilder's buglers signalled the men to commence firing. The bugle notes released man's newest device for total annihilation of his kind—the Spencer breech-loading, repeating rifle. There was no delay after the first volley because the soldiers did not have to laboriously ram home a muzzle-loading musket charge. Volley followed volley in rapid succession as Wilder's 4,000 men were capable of firing up to 60,000 shots per minute against the 6-8,000 per minute with the muzzle-loaders.

"STUNNED AND STOPPED"

That first accurate and well-timed volley stunned and stopped the Confederates momentarily but they tried again, then broke and ran as the firepower of the Union forces reached a peak never known before. Bragg rushed a fresh brigade into the fight, led by a cavalry charge outnumbering Wilder's men five to one. The cries of wounded men, the neighing of frightened horses and the crash of artillery added to the ob-charge. Lee's cavalry ran smack into Wilder's brigade and the Spencer carbines chopped them to a bloody defeat.

BORN IN CONN.

Christopher Miner Spencer was born in Connecticut sometime during the 1840's. The little town of Manchester claims the honor of being the birthplace of this spare-built, dry humored young machinist. From his early days he showed unusual ability as an inventive genius. Possessing a most versatile, brilliant mind, he could turn his thoughts and skills to almost anything. For over 10 years he experimented on firearms while working as a tool maker and locomotive repairman for the New York Central and as a machinist for the Cheney silk mills. He even perfected a horseless carriage powered by steam. It had a unique although crude differential and steering tiller which enabled it to turn corners at full speed. In what was probably the first automobile accident in the United States, Spencer's horseless carriage collided with a milk vendor's wagon in Boston in 1862. Spencer's real brain-child, however, was his breech-loading seven-shot repeating carbine patented in 1860.

It was the first really successful repeating rifle firing self-contained metallic cartridges. It was both a breechloader and a repeater. The seven-shot tubular magazine was inserted in a hole in the buttstock. This magazine had a follower spring which kept the cartridges constantly under pressure, pushing them forward to take their place in the chamber ready for firing. They were hefty .52 caliber rim-fire cartridges one and a half inches long, loaded with 45 to 48 grains of high grade black powder. The inside-lubricated, 350 grain slug (plus or minus 10-20 grains) was fairly well designed but it still was a lot of lead for such a light powder charge.

CASES WERE COPPER

The cartridge cases of Civil War vintage were all copper but they have stood the test of time admirably well. Certain makes will fire as reliably and with the same zip as when they were manufactured 90 to almost 100 years ago. It's hard to say that much about modern cartridges of any make.

During the Civil War over 200,000 Spencers in carbine lengths were purchased and nearly 50,000 rifles saw service. They probably did more to shorten the war than any other piece of ordnance used but they lived only a short life after the war, probably due to their low velocity and not too good balance. Some Spencer rifles were used by big game hunters and others were involved in some Indian skirmishes. It's hard to believe, however, that General George Custer, who performed so brilliantly at Gettysburg with his Spencer-equipped cavalry, was wiped out by the Sioux Nations at the Little Big Horn. The story might have had a different ending if Custer and his men had been armed with the rapid-firing Spencers instead of the single-shot Springfield carbines.

Newly Enriched Ice Creams

By Pensupreme Thrill Ice

Cream Lovers

Delicious proof has been served to Gettysburg that even the best is now better! For over 20 years Gettysburg has been partial to Pennsylvania's own Pensupreme Ice Cream. Now Penn Dairies, who make Pensupreme, have made two innovations that have created a sensation among the ice-cream-loving citizens of Gettysburg.

More Cream Content

Our rich Pennsylvania grazing lands are famous for the high quality of milk they yield, and the richness of the cream. This is the cream that is used exclusively in Pennsylvania-made ice creams by Pensupreme. Now there is an even higher percentage of this cream in all Pensupreme! Anyone living in the Gettysburg area knows how much extra-richness, extra-deliciousness that means. And that's what today's ice cream lover wants!

3 Different Varieties Now

Today, just one type of ice cream does not really suffice for the variations in modern menus—and budgets. So now Pensupreme offers 3 different varieties, to meet the shift in pace, and individual preferences.

Entertaining calls for an extra-luxurious "French" style ice cream. We now meet this need with the truly superb "Lady Penn"—an exciting new experience in ice cream enjoyment.

The current custom of large-scale family "ice-box raiding" calls for a constant, plentiful supply of lower-cost ice cream on hand for the young fry. "Dutch Treat" is just such a delicious ice cream, at a budget price.

Devotees of the traditionally fine "Pensupreme" will find it more luscious than ever, thanks to its increased cream content.

Same Reliable Producer

Penn Dairies maintains the same high standards of quality and uniformity for their new ice creams as before. Since 1898, when the company was founded, Pensupreme products have enjoyed an enviable reputation for top quality.

Constant Vigilance

This reputation was no "happencance," for Penn Dairies has always maintained a strict vigilance—over products, manufacturing methods and service. Pensupreme milk and cream come from selected and regularly inspected dairy herds on Pennsylvania's finest farms. Hundreds of quality tests are made daily, through all processes of ice cream production, to assure you of best flavor and best value.

Award Winners

Pensupreme milk and cream—the same used in making famous Pensupreme ice creams—have won many quality awards, including five consecutive annual awards at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Pensupreme Has New

Foil Package

Now packaged in half-gallon foil packages, Pensupreme—the family favorite in ice creams—has even greater protection for its dairy-fresh flavor. This foil package is another symbol of Penn Dairies' progressiveness—a "first" in the packaging of ice cream by any manufacturer in this area.

Choicest Ingredients

No effort is spared to make ice creams from Pensupreme the most delicious your money can buy anywhere. Penn Dairies has literally searched the world for the finest flavorings. These—plus rich Pensupreme milk and cream—make Pensupreme's 3 fine ice creams well worth the few pennies more than you might pay for other brands.

Whichever You Prefer...

Lady Penn, Pensupreme or Dutch Treat—you'll like them all for different occasions. And every one of these 3 fine products will introduce you to a new pleasure in ice cream eating.

AMAZING! THE EXTRA QUALITY A FEW MORE PENNIES WILL BUY

Quiet Diplomacy Can Cut Painfully Both Ways, Says Former Secretary Of State

By RENE J. CAPPON
NEW YORK, May 27 (AP) — The practice of "quiet" diplomacy may belong to a vanished age, but the slogan and catchword are peculiarly characteristic of our own. And, as former Secretary of State Dean Acheson reminds us, they can cut painfully both ways.

Many people know that Winston Churchill coined "the iron curtain." Fewer will associate another widely current phrase with him — "conference at the summit."

The first phrase played a part in rousing the West to international realities. The second, Acheson suggests, worked in the opposite and beguiled even its author — whom Acheson considers "one of the very few men who have significantly and beneficently affected the course of events" in our times.

Writing in his new book, "Sketches from Life" (Harper), Acheson comments: "What began as an attractive catchphrase meaning a meeting of the four heads of government gradually seduced him, and countless others, into a transcendentalism, by which such a meeting took on spiritual and superhuman qualities. . . . The phrase has done singular disservice to the decade of the 1950's."

SHAPED BASIC POLICIES

That decade, and the five years preceding, saw the shaping of basic U.S. foreign policies — the NATO alliance, German rearmament, "containment" of Communism and the rest.

But Acheson deals only implicitly with these issues. Primarily, he concentrates on personalities — the world leaders with whom he was engaged on the difficult enterprise and whom, for the most part, he liked, respected,

unity. WAS ADAMANT

"He could be as adamant as Molotov," Acheson reports, "but never in the Molotov manner. He simply withdrew behind walls of impenetrable logic glazed with courtesy."

One of the funniest and one sinister anecdote in the book concern Russia's Andrei Vishinsky.

The late Soviet diplomat and former purge trial prosecutor was sensitive to drafts. Knowing this, Acheson and some co-conspirators contrived to keep a door open on him during a tedious speech, so reducing Vishinsky to wheezes and sneezes.

Another time at a social function, Charles Bohlen — now U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia — reminded Vishinsky they had met before. The Russian racked his memory in vain. Bohlen told him it was at the trial of Bukharin, a former friend of Vishinsky who got him condemned to death.

TURNED WHITE

"As Bohlen pronounced the name, Vishinsky turned deathly white," Acheson writes. "Oh, he said, 'that was not a diplomatic job.'" Soon after, Vishinsky left the party and "from the look of him, Bukharin's ghost went with him."

The Russians, Acheson found, never engaged as individuals even at social occasions — perennial prisoners of their own propaganda. Negotiations with them could be equally deadly, for a different reason:

"To our minds international conferences and international negotiations are so completely means for ending conflict," Acheson explains, "that we are blind to the fact that they may be, and in the hands of experts, equally adapted to continuing it."

OPPOSITION TO SEGREGATION GETS BACKING

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The passive resistance movement against racial segregation, now stirring upheavals in the South, today had the backing of the United Presbyterian Church.

An action approved by the denomination's General Assembly "commends and encourages those persons who are seeking by non-violent means to bring about equality for all."

"Kneel-in" campaigns also were hailed as offering churches a chance to show whether they believe in the Gospel, and welcome worshippers regardless of race.

LETTER TO KENNEDY

In the closing session of the eight-day policy-making assembly the church Wednesday also condemned any "deliberate failure" by law enforcement officials to safeguard all persons from mob attacks.

Letters to President Kennedy and the Justice Department were authorized to convey the church's stand, and also commend them for prompt federal action against recent violence in Alabama.

The actions drew a sharp dissent from the Rev. Robert Kribbs, of Athens, Ga. "I feel it will hurt our church," he said. "It will make our task more difficult in dealing with the problem."

ISSUE OF DRINKING

On another high-voltage subject, the policy-making assembly for the first time acknowledged that

M. Sloan of Clarion. Happ is chairman of the State Securities Commission. They were appointed Wednesday by State Chairman Otis B. Morse.

Suggests Navy Maintain Blimps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pennsylvania congressman has suggested that the Navy maintain its blimps for use as military command posts in case of an enemy attack.

But the Navy, which plans to eliminate the blimp fleet for lack of funds, said no to the proposal by Rep. Daniel J. Flood, a Democrat.

Flood made his suggestion at a recent closed-door hearing of a House Appropriations Subcommittee. He said the blimps would make excellent emergency headquarters.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of Naval operations, said the Navy still plans to eliminate all of the blimps, which are stationed at the Lakehurst, N.J., Naval Air Station, by June 30.

The statements were made public Wednesday by the subcommittee.

SPONSOR ATOMIC BILL

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania would move into the atomic energy field under a new Senate bill.

The measure would establish the office of atomic development.

Sponsors Wednesday were Sens. Charles R. Weiner, D-Philadelphia; James S. Berger, R-Potter; and Joseph Ripp, D-Allegheny.

3 KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Two cars collided head-on about midnight Wednesday night, killing three persons and injuring two others.

John Koval, 47, of Harwood, who was riding alone in his car, and James N. Fichter Jr., 20, driver of the other car, and Mrs. Marlene Sterling, 20, a passenger, both of West Hazleton, were dead on arrival at the Hazleton State Hospital.

Admitted to the hospital in critical condition were Norman Sauers, 21, of West Hazleton, and Marian Sleva, 19, of Cranberry, passengers in the Fichter auto. Sauers suffered a fractured left leg and facial and body injuries. Miss Sleva suffered severe head injuries.

Police said Fichter apparently lost control of his auto, which was eastbound on Route 924, known as Hollar's Hill, three miles southwest of this northeastern Pennsylvania community. Officers said his car crossed over into the other lane and collided with the oncoming Koval vehicle.

Both cars were demolished.

APPROVE BILL

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Historical Committee Wednesday approved a bill authorizing the State Historical and Museum Commission to accept a small tract of land in Cornwall Borough, Lebanon County.

The tract, little more than an acre in size, is owned by the Bethlehem-Cuba Iron Mines Co. The bill is now in position for a vote on the Senate floor.

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes' efforts to end segregation in the South through direct but passive action—such as sit-ins and bus rides by Negroes and white sympathizers—raises a haunting question.

Would this country be closer to total desegregation if a quarter century ago Negroes had begun their present tactics instead of deciding on the long, slow road through the courts?

Back in the 1930s the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People instead of direct action, began a fight, step by painful step through the courts to have segregation declared unconstitutional.

FOUGHT WITH SCHOOLS

Before ever trying to get the court to outlaw public school segregation, a truly explosive area, the NAACP fought to get schools on the higher levels desegregated through court action.

As long ago as 1946 the court outlawed segregation on interstate buses, although you might not think so in view of the white mob riots last week in Alabama over buses carrying so-called "freedom riders" of whites and Negroes.

The NAACP's crowning achievement was the Supreme Court's May 17, 1954 decision against public school segregation. All the court's previous anti-segregation rulings didn't have the impact of this.

LITTLE ANTAGONISM

Out of it flowed the bitterest Southern white antagonism, the determination to make a last-ditch fight in defiance of the court, the Little Rock riots of 1957 and, as an end product, the Alabama riots last week.

Negroes became more confident of breaking down all the Southern segregation barriers with the government now compelled to intervene, even with federal troops, to back up the authority of the court.

But by bit the NAACP lost its role as the almost exclusive champion and spokesman for Negroes. Other Negro groups came into existence determined to fight faster and more directly against all forms of desegregation.

This is particularly true among Southern Negro students who took the nonviolent but still direct action of picketings and sit-ins. The first big example of the new policy came about six years ago in Montgomery, Ala.

ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

There Negroes put an economic squeeze on the white-dominated city by boycotting the buses. New Negro leaders, operating outside the NAACP, emerged, like the Rev. Martin Luther King who led the bus boycott.

But the original question still remains: Would Negroes have moved faster toward desegregation if they had chosen the direct action road 25 years ago instead of the slower course taken by the NAACP? This writer thinks no.

For this reason: The psychological climate wasn't right. Neither were the circumstances.

1. Africa was still a collection of European colonies. Only in recent years have African Negroes begun to assert themselves and gain independence. This gave encouragement to Negroes everywhere to fight directly for their rights.

2. The United States, seeking to lead the non-Communist world, is made self-conscious every time is an anti-Negro outburst in this country.

3. The Supreme Court decisions against segregation have split Southerners' thinking, even of those who may favor segregation but realize there can be only anarchy if the court's rulings are ignored or violated.

4. The court's rulings, coming one at a time over years, have conditioned both the country and the South into realization that segregation had to end.

5. The court itself, more than 60 years ago, had approved segregation and considered it constitutional so long as segregated Negroes got treatment equal to that given whites. They did not, of course.

But with the Supreme Court on the side of segregation, Negroes were handicapped. Any demonstrations could have been suppressed on the ground they were violating state segregation laws. The government could have done little or nothing to help, until the Supreme Court reversed itself.

6. Now the situation is different. With the court throwing out various Southern segregation laws, the federal government can back up Negroes protesting segregation, as it did in Little Rock and on the buses.

DETROIT (AP)—New York's Metropolitan Opera Co. won't play before segregated audiences in the South any more.

Rudolf Bing, the Met's general manager, said Tuesday the company "can't afford" to do so.

Bing said he had informed patrons in Atlanta and Dallas, where the Met makes regular stops, that it could no longer give performances in those cities.

Mexico's Street Of The Kiss Has Legendary Past

GUANAJUATO, Mexico (AP)—Here in the heart of Mexico's kiss-in' country a fellow can sneak a smooch from ladies on the other side of the street without bother- ing to cross it.

This interesting phenomenon was made possible through the foresight of Spanish engineers who built the place back in 1554.

The chances are, these engi- ners saw the romantic advantages of having streets five feet wide and houses with balconies that almost touched. Guanajuato was built in a cradle of mountains where the natives, by a pleasant coincidence, had some silver mines in operation. A good size withholding tax helped make it one of the finest colonial cities in New Spain.

The cobblestone streets that snake aimlessly across steep hill- sides are a common ground for milling pedestrians, burros and automobiles. A crack in the mas- sive architecture from a block away becomes a narrow lane when you wonder how a child could squeeze through such a space, out comes a pickup truck—with no paint on its sides.

STREET OF KISS

Typical of the winding, up-and- down thoroughfares is the Street of The Kiss. The name comes from its exciting—well, at least romantic—history.

It seems that in the old days, a young lady named Dona Ana and a caballero named Don Carlos occupied houses that faced each other on this street. And the houses were equipped with bal- conies at coinciding levels.

Dona Ana and Don Carlos had a severe head of steam for each other but Dona Ana's papa took a short view of the whole idea. He had a lucrative offer for his daughter's hand from Spain. And Don Carlos was very small apples at that time.

BIT OF DIALOGUE

The legend says that early one 1/2-cup molds; chill until set. Turn out and serve with whipped cream or sour cream. Makes six servings.

morning, Dona Ana stepped out on her balcony just as Don Carlos did likewise on his. And the following bit of dialogue was re- corded by reliable listeners.

"Dona Ana."
"Don Carlos."
"Thou art my life, Dona Ana."
"And thou art mine, Don Carlos."

This point having been settled to the satisfaction of both, a rather spectacular encounter took place between the balconies. All of which was witnessed by papa who came bellowing in with his housekeeper, Matilde, trying to steer him off by his coattails.

But father was a man of honor. He drew his dagger and stuck Donna Ana in the brisket and re- marked to Matilde, "That ought to learn her. What's for break- fast?"

After pop retired to the dining room to begin the day's schedule, Don Carlos leaned over to buss the hand of his late lady friend. And then he rushed down to city hall to have the alley way named Street of The Kiss in honor of the situation.

There being very little else he could do under the ancient Spanish code.

LACKS THE TIME

HONOLULU (AP) — Japanese singer Chiemi Eri says she's too busy with her career to plan on a family "for another two or three years."

Mrs. Eri, 24, is in Honolulu for performances during the cherry blossom festival, one of Hawaii's most elaborate annual celebrations sponsored by the Japanese com- munity.

She told newsmen her film, tele- vision radio, stage and recording career leaves no time for mother- hood.

Algeria is a land of contrasts. North of the Atlas Mountains, the country's narrow coastal strip is blanketed with vine- yards, orange groves, and vege- table gardens. But south of the mountains stretches the arid Sahara Desert.

Probe Stock Market To Learn If Its Members Are Policed

EDITOR'S NOTE: J. P. Morgan once described the action of the stock market this way: "It fluctuates." He didn't say why. Now a federal agency has launched an investigation of the American Stock Exchange to see if its regulations are tight enough against possible inside shenanigans. This is the third of a series of four articles by Frank Cormier of The Associated Press staff in Washington who has done extensive research on questions raised by the price rigging case which triggered the investigation.

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal investigators have turned up evidence that Jerry Re, as a prominent member of the American Stock Exchange, tried to manipulate brokerage recommendations through bribery.

To officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission, this is one of the most shocking aspects of the agency's case against Re and his son, Gerard. Both men were expelled from the exchange May 4 by federal order.

The Res were found guilty by the SEC of wilfully manipulating the market in stocks of nine corporations, plus other violations described by agency lawyers as "deliberate, numerous and gross." They did not contest the charges.

PROBE STOCK MARKET

Now the SEC is investigating the exchange itself, to see whether this second largest stock market is properly policing its members.

Two brokerage employees, Harrison Parsons and Edward Ballman, told SEC investigators that Jerry Re invited them to lunch in 1958 and offered a bribe.

Parsons said Re offered "10 cents a share under the table" if he and Ballman would induce customers to buy about 50,000 shares of I. Rokeach & Sons Inc., a kosher food manufacturer now operating as Exquisite Form Brassiere.

OFFER WAS REJECTED

Both Parsons and Ballman, who were employed at the time by Harris, Upham & Co., said Re's offer was rejected.

Parsons said Re led him to believe some other brokerage workers hadn't been as scrupulous.

Re and his son were market specialists who conducted the daily auctions for the exchange in shares of Rokeach and 19 other corporations.

Although Ballman and Parsons were the only brokers to report a bribe attempt, they were not the only witnesses to speak of bribery.

MARKET RIGGING

The SEC also heard testimony indicating that Jerry Re accepted a promise of $75,000 for market rigging.

Financier Jennis M. Doroshaw acknowledged that he promised Re $75,000. Doroshaw at the time was president of Thompson-Starrett Co. Inc., which has since had a complete change of management.

Doroshaw said he made the promise because Re suggested a number of potential mergers for the company. He said that while none of these materialized, he felt

GETS IDEA FOR LADY'S PANTS FROM HIS SON

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"You have to have an ego satisfaction in life or it isn't worth living," said Jack Winter. "You have to create—you must have a sense of uplift."

Winter has found his own sense of uplift. He is the world's largest manufacturer of women's costume pants.

Women now buy between 25 and 30 million pairs of pants a year—"please don't call them slacks," the word slacks has a sound of looseness"—and the fact that America's new First Lady wears pants has been a big source of satisfaction to the industry.

"So far as we know Jacqueline Kennedy is the first mistress of the White House to wear them," said Winter, whose Milwaukee firm turns out more than two million pairs a year.

GRATE IMPACT

The leaders in this field estimate that the impact of Mrs. John F. Kennedy's fondness for pants will boom the output 25 per cent this year. She is the first U.S. president's wife in a long time who has the sense of personal style to establish an American fashion in women's wear.

But Winter's success formula didn't spring from Mrs. Kennedy's acceptance of pants.

Many parents complain today about the problem of dealing with teen-age children. Jack Winter is the only businessman I have met who proudly credits a teen-age son with giving him a million-dollar idea.

In 1934 he was selling and buying in a retail store, and in an early-day moonlighting operation started making men's pants as a sideline.

GAVE HIM IDEA

"It was a basement operation," he recalled. "I started with $2,500 and the first few years I felt lucky if I did $20,000 business a year."

"We moved out to the suburbs about 10 years ago. My son Jack was then 15 and my other son, Michael, was 10."

"My wife and I went to their school activities. Both boys attracted the girls. I noticed more and more that Jack's girl friends were going in for casual wear, and so were their mothers."

"That gave me the idea for con-

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman has been discharged from the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center where he underwent eye surgery May 9 for a detached retina. The Roman Catholic prelate, who has been reported making steady progress since the operation, went home Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has asked that 6,000 men be inducted into the Army during July.

The draft request was the first since April when 1,500 men were called up.

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's European allies have authorized concentrating on pants for women, instead of pants for men. It also helped to convince me that my own wife, Muriel, who is a high-style person, liked to wear pants.

"If I have had any success, I owe it to my own family."

The big market for women's pants is among high school and college girls and young married women, but they also have a widening market—figuratively speaking—among older women, including grandmothers.

ized her to build eight destroyers of up to 6,000 tons, heavy enough to mount missile launchers.

The new limit approved by the Council of the Western European Union was double the previous limit under the 1954 Brussels treaty.

LONDON (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham was confined to his hotel room Wednesday with a severe bronchial infection and his doctor barred visitors.

Graham arrived at Southampton on the liner Queen Mary Monday to begin a scheduled three-week campaign of revival meetings. He already has been forced to cancel meetings in London and Swansea, Wales.

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Communist party chief Janos Kadar has indicated there is a possibility that Soviet forces will be withdrawn from Hungary.

Kadar told a meeting of factory workers that the Soviet Union could not be expected to "defend" Hungary's frontiers until the end of time.
